

Practice Values for A.A.Pi Endorsed Psychologists.

With my signature freely given below, I

Karen Workman

pledge to fulfil the Code of Ethics of the Australian Association of Psychologists

and the spirit of this covenant:

I apply all that is within my ability to help the distressed, be they individuals, families or other social systems.

I remember that I do not treat conditions, but help human beings.

I recognise that in addition to science, the practice of psychology requires warmth, empathy, and understanding.

I am willing to call on my colleagues when needed.

I respect the privacy and other civil rights of my clients.

I respect the equality of people, regardless of age, sex, race, or disability.

Above all else, I strive to do no harm.

If I honour these values, may I enjoy life, be respected while I live, and be remembered with affection thereafter.

May I always act so as to preserve the finest traditions of my calling as a psychologist, and may I long experience the joy of helping those who seek my assistance.

A.A.Pi President

Endorsed Psychologist

On this..... day of..... 2011